The Indian Listener (fortnightly programme journal of AIR in English) published by The Indian State Broadcasting Service, Bombay, started on 22 December, 1935 and was the successor to the Indian Radio Times in English, which was published beginning in July 16 of 1927. From 22 August, 1937 onwards, it was published by All India Radio, New Delhi. From July 3, 1949, it was turned into a weekly journal. Later, The Indian Listener became "Akashvani" in January 5, 1958. It was made a fortnightly again on July 1, 1983. It used to serve the listener as a Bradshaw of broadcasting, and give listener the useful information in an interesting manner about programmes, who writes them, take part in them and produce them along with photographs of performing artists. It also contains the information of major changes in the policy and service of the organisation. This Edgar Award-winning crime novel offers "pulp fiction in Castro's Cuba" (Martin Cruz Smith, author The Girl from Venice). Alicia is a smart, confident, and gorgeous prostitute in Havana. She is not a streetwalker. Rather, she displays her wares on bicycle, seducing men through the irresistible pull of her fine derri è re. John King, her new client, is a Canadian businessman with a striking resemblance to movie star Alain Delon. This is no ordinary John, and as Alicia's feelings for him grow, she sees in their relationship the possibility of escape from her dead-end life in a city plagued with scarcity. So when King's wealthy and sexually deviant boss is suddenly killed, Alicia and John hatch a get-rich-quick scheme. A web of deception is woven—but it will be quickly and disastrously unraveled, and only one person will be able to say adi ó s to the dilapidated island of Cuba . . . "Fun, fast, and intelligent . . . A madcap caper full of twisted sex, devious schemes and high-rolling hijinks . . . Will leave readers clamoring for more." —Publishers Weekly "The book's cynical take on ambition and greed is tempered by humor and humanity." —The New York Times "Impossible to put down. This is a great read." —Library Journal

Año 256 a.C. Primera Guerra Púnica. Después de casi diez años de conflicto, Roma y Cartago se han desangrado mutuamente sin que ninguna consiga imponerse claramente. Marco Atilio Régulo, recién elegido cónsul, es enviado por el senado a África, al mando de la mayor flota jamás botada por Roma, con el fin de ir conquistando las ciudades que rodean Cartago, estrangular a la capital enemiga y poner fin al conflicto de una vez por todas. Los púnicos, con un ejército muy inferior al romano y conociendo el prestigio militar de Régulo, se ven obligados a ponerse en manos de Jantipo, un curtido mercenario espartano al que confiarán su futuro. Sin embargo, los despóticos gobernantes cartagineses, temiendo que una vez que se haga con el control del ejército, lo utilice para derrocarles, le encargan a Arishat, una bella cortesana, que vigile los pasos del espartano; pero ninguno de ellos está preparado para lo que les depara el destino. Basándose en los relatos del historiador griego Polibio, Pedro Santamaría narra con fidelidad y un ritmo demoledor la fascinante historia de la primera expedición romana a África, y el trágico y épico desenlace de la batalla de Bagradas, donde se jugará el futuro de Cartago.
