NATIONAL BESTSELLER • SOON TO BE A MAJOR MOTION PICTURE • A favorite Christian romance classic—a tragically wounded soul, the man called to marry her, and the only love that heals all—now available in a beautiful keepsake, linen-bound edition! “ A literary masterpiece, reminding us that God ’ s love is unconditional. ” —Debbie Macomber California ’ s gold country, 1850. A time when men sold their souls for a bag of gold and women sold their bodies for a place to sleep. Angel expects nothing from men but betrayal. Sold into prostitution as a child, she survives by keeping her hatred alive. And what she hates most are the men who use her, leaving her empty and dead inside. Then she meets Michael Hosea, a man who seeks his Father ’ s heart in everything. Michael obeys God ’ s call to marry Angel and to love her unconditionally. Slowly, day by day, he defies Angel ’ s every bitter expectation, until despite her resistance, her frozen heart begins to thaw. But with her unexpected softening comes overwhelming feelings of unworthiness and fear. And so Angel runs. Back to the darkness, away from her husband ’ s pursuing love, terrified of the truth she no longer can deny: her final healing must come from the One who loves her even more than Michael does . . . the One who will never let her go. A powerful retelling of the story of Gomer and Hosea, Redeeming Love is a life-changing story of God ’ s unconditional, redemptive, all-consuming love.

From the Booker Prize winning author of Amsterdam, a brilliant new novel. On the hottest day of the summer of 1935, thirteen-year-old Briony Tallis sees her sister Cecilia strip off her clothes and plunge into the fountain in the garden of their country house. Watching her is Robbie Turner, son of the Tallis ’ s cleaning lady, whose education has been subsidized by Cecilia ’ s and Briony ’ s father, and who, like Cecilia, has recently come down from Cambridge. By day's end, their lives will be changed — irrevocably. Robbie and Cecilia will have crossed a boundary they had not imagined at its start. And Briony will have witnessed mysteries, seen an unspeakable word, and committed a crime for which she will spend the rest of her life trying to atone. . . Brilliant and utterly enthralling in its depiction of love and war and class and childhood and England, An Atonement is a profound — and profoundly moving — exploration of shame and forgiveness, of atonement and of the possibility of absolution.

Having been abandoned as a newborn and found and raised by Pastor Ezekiel Freeman in the small California town of Haven, Abra Matthews feels like she doesn't belong and at the age of seventeen runs off to Hollywood, becoming starlet Lena Scott.

The New York Times bestselling author of Redeeming Love and A Voice in the Wind pens a captivating tale of suffering, seeking, and redemption set in Appalachia in the 1850s. In the misty peaks and valleys of Appalachia roams the sin eater—a myth as much as a man, burdened with absolving the sins of villagers passing from this life to the next. But when a young girl uncovers the dark secret behind the tradition, she vows to show her village the truth. All that matters for young Cadi Forbes is finding the one man who can set her free from the sin that plagues her, the sin that has stolen her mother ’ s love from her and made Cadi wish she could flee life and its terrible injustice. But Cadi doesn ’ t know that the sin eater is seeking as well.

Before their journeys are over, Cadi and the sin eater must face themselves, each other, and the One who will demand everything from them in exchange for the answers they seek. “ This unforgettable novel is rich in style, lore, and action, revealing a profound truth in a way only Francine Rivers can do. Transcending age, gender, and reading genres, this gripping story is a must-read for men, women, and young people alike. ” —Romantic Times “ Rivers delivers both a powerful message about Christian beliefs and the need for forgiveness of sins and an evocative portrayal of life in the 1850s. Highly recommended. ” —Library Journal Also available in The Francine Rivers Historical Collection (e-book only).

A child ’ s abduction sends a father reeling in this Whitbread Award-winning novel that explores time and loss with “ narrative daring and imaginative genius ” (Kirkus Reviews, starred review). Stephen Lewis, a successful author of children ’ s books, is on a routine trip to the supermarket with his three-year-old daughter. In a brief moment of distraction, she suddenly vanishes—and is irretrievably lost. From that moment, Lewis spirals into bereavement that effects his marriage, his psyche, and his relationship with time itself: “ It was a wonder that there could be so much movement, so much purpose, all the time. He himself had none at all. ” In The Child in Time, acclaimed author Ian McEwan “ sets a story of domestic horror against a disorienting exploration in time ” producing “ a work of remarkable intellectual and political sophistication ” that has been adapted into a PBS Masterpiece movie starring Benedict Cumberbatch (Kirkus Reviews, starred review). “ A beautifully rendered, very disturbing novel. ” —Publishers Weekly

The Forsaken Son engages the provocative coincidence of the vocabularies of infanticide and Christianity, specifically atonement theology, in six modern American novels: Flannery O ’ Connor ’ s The Violent Bear It Away, the first two installments of John Updike ’ s Rabbit tetralogy, Toni Morrison ’ s Beloved, Joyce Carol Oates ’ s My Sister, My Love, and Cormac McCarthy ’ s Outer Dark. Christian atonement theology explains why God lets His son be crucified. Yet in recent years, as an increasing number of scholars have come to reject that explanation, the cross reverts from saving grace to trauma—or even crime. More bluntly, without atonement, the cross may be a filicide, in which God forces his son to die for no apparent reason. Pederson argues that the novels about child murder mentioned above likewise give voice to modern skepticism about traditional atonement theology.
